GOOD PROGRAM FOR 1927 CHAUTAUQUA

The Dominion Chautauqua will be held this year in Carbon on June 1-2-3-4, and a very interesting program is being arranged by the management including the following lecturers and musical artists:

Julian B. Arnold, of London, England, son of the famous Sir Edwin Arnold, author of "The Light of Asia" in his new picture lecture, "With the Moors of Northern Africa and Sahara."

John Ross Reed, noted baritone, with assisting artists.

The Toronto Male Quartet in a special Schubert program.

J. Smith Dameron in his fascinating, instructive and demonstrative lecture, "The Potter and the Clay."

The Plantation Singers—direct from the southland.

And a program for the kiddies including the person of Taylor, the Clown.

In past years the Dominion Chautauqua has been successfully promoted in Carbon and this year with such drawing cards as some of those mentioned above the same enthusiasm should prevail, thus helping along the great educational work of the Chautauqua. It is not often that the people of the smaller towns get a chance to hear and see these wonderful artists, and that is one of the main reasons of the Chautauqua; that all classes of people may be able to benefit without the enormous cost, which would otherwise be if one had to travel to the far away cities if they wanted to hear these lecturers and musical artists.

Easter

Easter comes at a glad season of the year. The festival itself, is both commemorative of the resurrection of Jesus Christ and as a memorial to the atonement wrought by the death of the Master upon the cross.

It is hailed with great acclaim in all the Christian churches of the world. In Greek and Latin and in the languages derived from them, Easter was known as "Pascha," "Pasqua," "Paques," etc., from the Chaldee word, "Pascha," the equivalent of the Hebrew "Pesach." The "Destroying Angel's" act is recalled by the last name in "passing over" the households of the Hebrews when he smote the Egyptians, as disclosed in the twelfth chapter of Exodus.

This year Easter will fall on April 17. The way by which Easter is determined is that of the first Sunday after the paschal full moon—the fourteenth day of the calendar moon, or the full moon which happens upon or next after March 21; and if the full moon happens on a Sunday, then Easter day is the first Sunday following.

Gamble Items

Mr. McKeivey and Mr. R. English met a number of the Gamble boys of 12 years and over, at Mr. Hart's place to form a C.S.E.T. group. The boys are enthusiastic and soon hope to have a good working group. They would welcome any boys wishing to join them.

Miss Munro leaves Thursday via Calgary, for Red Deer, where she will spend the Easter vacation.

A keen competitor to Betsy Wiley, the Nova Scotia world's champion milk and butter producer, has been discovered at Fox River, Cumberland County. Mr. Henry S. Kerr of this place, claims that he owns the champion butter producing cow in her class. This cow is a grade Ayrshire and Durham cow, which has just recently freshened. In one week she produced 392 lbs. of milk, which churned 20 1/2 lbs. of butter, after deducting approximately 12 quarts of milk and 1 1/2 quarts of cream for home consumption. This record is creating keen interest.

Following upon his recent announcement to the effect that a Toronto firm of architects would be employed in connection with the erection of the new Canadian Pacific Hotel in that city, E. W. Beatty, Chairman and President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, recently stated that Messrs. Sprout and Rolph had been appointed associates with the firm of Ross and Macdonald of Montreal, to handle this work. Messrs. Ross and Macdonald have been employed in Canadian Pacific work for some time, the latest of their buildings being the company's new hotel at Regina. It is desired that the new hotel shall be thoroughly representative of the city in which it stands and the appointment of a firm of Toronto architects is made to further this purpose.

GOLF NOTES

A local Golf tournament has been arranged to take place tomorrow (Good Friday) and the draw has been completed and posted in most of the business places around town.

Many new players have been included in the draw, which will be composed entirely of foursomes, and the play is to commence at 10 o'clock in the morning, while the ladies will commence at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. This draw also includes many new players.

The first auction sale of horses that has taken place in Montreal for some years was opened at the East End Stock Markets, March 28. Stabling was put at 262 horses and it was stated that approximately 200 horses were sold. The demand was mostly for heavy draught horses, Percherons, Clydesdales and the like, for carriages and for lumbering purposes, coming chiefly from Alberta and Saskatchewan, and some from the middle west.

Consequent upon an agreement reached at a general conference of Canadian and United States telegraph companies the Canadian Pacific Telegraphs have announced that code words will be accepted at all their offices in future for day and night letters. This departure will affect both Canadian and international business, the companies concerned being: the Postal-Telegraph Company, the Canadian Pacific Telegraphs, the Canadian National Telegraphs and the Western Union Telegraph Company.

The development of a new industry from the propagation of muskrats and other water fur-bearing animals, in land and water areas, leased from the Province of Alberta through agreement with the Dominion Government, was indicated by Hon. George Hoadley, Minister of Agriculture, in committee discussion in the Alberta Legislature. The amendment would give the Government power to regulate and license fur and game farms, and to lease the Dominion water and land areas for the propagation of such animals.

New C. N. R. Branch Lines Proposed This Year For Alberta Would Open Up New Territory

The Minister of Railways is this Session asking Parliament, on behalf of the Canadian National Railways, for authority to construct sixty-eight miles of new lines within the Province of Alberta. The first of these lines is a cut-off between Bretona and Clover Bar, just east of Edmonton. This cut-off, eleven miles in length, will make possible shorter and faster routing of freight between Edmonton and Camrose and points beyond.

The second of the colonization and development lines proposed is from Ashmont to Bonnyville, a distance of thirty-eight miles. Along this line, as proposed, there is much good land, some highly developed, but for the most part only partially developed. Beyond Bonnyville, east and north and as far as the Cold Lake district, there are areas settled and partly developed. Lack of railway communication is, however, hampering

At present trains between Edmonton and Camrose run over the circuitous route through the City of Edmonton, dropping down into the Valley of the North Saskatchewan River and crossing the river on the low-level highway bridge to climb again on a very steep gradient out of the valley to the top of the bank—passenger trains then backing into the South Edmonton station.

Passenger trains now take 45 minutes to go from Edmonton station to South Edmonton station. Freight trains are limited to very light loads, partly on account of the heavy gradients on the line and because the motive power is limited by the capacity of the low-level bridge. The route via the new proposed cut-off will save eleven miles in distance for all trains, and over an hour in running time for passenger trains. Large economies in operating expenses can be made.

The other two lines that it is proposed to build in Alberta are in the northern part of the Province and are for colonization and development purposes. One runs in an easterly direction from Elk Point for a distance of nineteen miles, traversing good land and terminating at the North Saskatchewan River. Access to the south side of the river is thus afforded to settlers in the district, and there is a considerable area of good land on the south side of the river which will be tributary to the new line. It has been anticipated that this line would be extended to meet the branch proposed to run from Spruce Lake, Saskatchewan, in a westerly direction but the joining up of these two lines is not required at the present stage of development and traffic routing. It is felt that the new line is justified by the saving of road haul to the settlers and the creation of development work in the areas served.

further development on account of the long road haul on farm products. The whole district, north and east of the proposed branch, is susceptible of agricultural development, with the exception of a relatively small percentage of sandy country. The precipitation is ample for grain growing and mixed farming.

Improvement in Hog Breeding

Government Gives Encouragement to the Hog Breeding Industry

The field work which the Dominion Live Stock Branch is doing in aid of the hog breeding industry is meeting with considerable success. The demand for hog grading demonstrations is continuous and they have been the means of convincing many farmers of the suitability of the bacon hog for both domestic and export trade. The boys' and girls' swine clubs have also proven to be valuable educational features.

So popular has this work become in the Province of Quebec that a number of representative commission agents and packing companies have sent a signed statement to the Live Stock Branch enthusiastically commending the field work of the government and suggesting that even more intensive efforts be made in districts which have already shown gains. They state that there has been a marked improvement in the type and quality of hogs offered for sale and that the improvement in hogs in terms of dollars and cents has been at least $1.00 per hundred weight on the average quality of all stock sold.

Viscount Grey Analyses The British Character and Tells How The Empire Has Been Built Up

"If you look at the map you will see how exceedingly small the British Isles are, yet an influence has been exercised by them in the world's history quite out of proportion to the size of the country, and an empire has been built up of an extent and character which is unprecedented and unparalleled," said Viscount Grey in a recent public address.

"It is due, I think, to three things—to the island, to the climate, and to the race. The fact that we are an island has enabled the race to develop its own character and qualities in a way it could not have done had it been part of the Continent.

"It has meant that the door to go out into the world has been specially easy to open, but there has been no entrance for other people from outside to interfere. The climate is such that it is never so cold or inhospitable as to make labor impossible or unremunerative.

"Then the race comes from a very stout stock. Danes, Saxons and Normans were in their time pioneers in Europe. They were the adventurous spirits, the most energetic, the most enterprising, and the most courageous. They collected here because it was the adventure of the time to come here, and being here they found themselves where they could develop unimpeded.

"It is natural that people who are pioneers should have a real passion for individual liberty, and that stands out in our history as one of the great characteristics of the race. That by itself could never have enabled the English race to do much in the world. It would have resulted in chaos. But there was something in the race which corrected what would otherwise have been the great defect of that quality.

"They became penetrated with the sense that order was necessary. The passion for individual liberty meant an intolerance of arbitrary authority, and whereas in other parts of the Continent kings might establish an arbitrary authority, the English people would not stand it. But it was not enough to overthrow the arbitrary authority of a king. It was not safe for power to remain in any single class. We are not exempt from the universal law of human nature, and no individual, and still more no class, is to be trusted with power over other classes.

"Now power is distributed throughout every class in the country, what is the future going to be? Hitherto, when any one class has abused power, the remedy has been to invest the class below it with power to protect itself. I trust now that power is distributed, that if any one class, even if it be the most numerous class, attempts to use that power solely for its own interests at the expense of the others, it will find there is a community sense in the nation which will prevent the abuse of power.

"The sense of order has made the English race equally conscious that it will not tolerate arbitrary authority it must at least have individual authority to produce order. The stronger the sense of individual liberty the more essential it is that we should be penetrated with a sense of order.

"All good qualities have their defects, and one of the defects of the independence of individual character has been that we have not been a very teachable people. But every defect has its compensations and the fact that we have been a nation of amateurs rather than experts has tended to develop resourcefulness and individual initiative, and this has been some compensation for our lack of disciplined study of science.

"We have also been essentially a practical people, and one essential feature of a practical people is that they do one thing at a time, and they do not select anything for their energies unless they feel it is within the compass of their power to achieve. And having done that one thing they make it a starting point for the next and so have continuity of action. That is how the British Empire has been built up.

"When once the British race is confronted with an issue it understands to be an issue between what is right and what is wrong, there is an uprising of conscience which is a remarkable and satisfactory thing. That core of moral and religious sense and conscience is a very real thing, but I do not like to dwell upon it because we have also a very material side.

"I have been talking these points of passion for liberty and love of order rather than any great ideal, because looking through our history you see we have had to deal with practical problems, and these qualities have been used in solving them rather than that we have gone out into the world as crusaders.

"Without our strong sense of order the very energy we had would have produced chaos; without the practical sense which made one thing lead on to another there would have been no continuity of action, and we should not have developed and grown and built up as we have.

"And last for our comparative lack of imagination we should probably have planned for too much and attempted things beyond our compass at the time, and come to wreck where as a matter of fact we have made successes."

Dairies In Denmark Mostly Co-Operative

Very Small Number Are Operated by Individual Owners

Only 299 of Denmark's 1,600 registered dairies are in the hands of individual owners, all the rest being co-operative dairies, according to the Danish paper, Tidende. Sixteen hundred of the dairies produce butter for export, and more than one-third of the butter export trade is conducted by co-operative butter export associations established in various parts of the country. The British Co-Operative Wholesale Society has establishments in Denmark, for the purpose of exporting Danish agricultural products to Britain.

The African Chaperone

Among many African and Asiatic peoples girls were betrothed in infancy and kept hidden until ready for marriage. They were tabu to the warriors, an elderly woman being selected to see that they were not approached by any man. When the girls reached a certain age they were permitted to "come out" into the sun and be married. Survivals of this custom are seen in our chaperone, the coming-of-age party and "coming out" into society.

Remarkable Skating Feat

This stunt was put on at the Banff Springs Hotel Rink during the recent Winter Carnival there and excited much comment. It is pretty hard to say whether the spectators enjoyed the spectacle more than the actual performers of it, but certainly the former had not to work so hard, since it was surely easy to look at. The Banff Carnival was a great success this year and is now a fixture for good. With the opening of the new wing of the hotel and the inauguration of a winter season hardly less popular than the summer one, there can be no doubt but that Banff will be the Queen of the western amusement resorts in the near future.

The Credit System

Recently in an adjoining town the sheriff was offering the goods and accounts of a man for what he could get. The accounts amounted to about $1600 and were sold for less than $9. Why? Because they belong to that class of people who never pay an honest debt nor expect to pay one if they can help it. The prime cause of this state of affairs is the credit system. As the cancer is to humanity so is the credit system to the business world. Politicians are quarreling about protection and free trade, but if the system of pay as you go could be impressed upon the people of the country, it would be a vastly greater benefit than either. The credit system caters to the morbid desire of a certain class of people who live beyond their means. It gives them a chance to get everything they want; not what they really want, but what they think they want. Then there is the class of people who lack moral stamina. They never pay a book account, but pay cash when they can't get credit. These human parasites are the cause of more real suffering than anything else under our government, including whisky. The economy of nature, perfect as it is, lacks one thing—a jumping off place for dead beats.

Canada's Diamond Jubilee

1. Grain Elevators at Fort William. 2. Victoria Island in Western Point. 3. The Parliament Buildings. 4. A tour through the Rockies. 5. A ship on the Great Lakes.

The Dominion-wide celebration of Canada's sixtieth year of Confederation which is being planned for July of this year, will be the most remarkable and extensive ever held. The last links of a united Canada were placed in position forty years ago with the completion of the Canadian Pacific Railway. It is in furthering the bond between the peoples of the east and the west that this country will be engaged to a large extent during the celebration.

One of the most spectacular of plans for bringing the people of all parts of Canada together under pleasant auspices and at the same time affording them an opportunity of gaining greater first hand knowledge of their country through personal contact has been arranged by the New Outlook, official organ of the United Church of Canada.

On June 25th, a "million dollar" special train will leave Toronto with a limited number of passengers from the eastern provinces aboard, and follow the confederation route. The "Confederation Special," as it will be called, will be operated on the all-expense plan which will enable practically all who have the time to travel to do so. It will touch all the principal cities and resorts in the west and operate for twenty-one days. The hospitality of the westerners is well known, so it is not surprising to learn that when the first announcement of the train was made, organizations and individuals in every city included in the itinerary offered to entertain the party and see that it was given every facility for sight seeing and enjoyment. The latest invitation is from the Prince of Wales's Ranch at High River to which the members of the special train party will motor from Calgary on July 1st.

Using More Canadian Wheat

Germans Prefer It to That From Any Other Country

The consumption of Canadian wheat in Germany is increasing year by year because the preference of the German people is rapidly swinging from rye bread to wheat bread, was the statement made by Dr. Lorenz, German consul at Winnipeg, who paid his first visit to Saskatchewan recently and while in Saskatoon spent a great deal of time at the University where he showed a particular interest in all things having to do with Saskatchewan agriculture.

The change from rye bread to wheat bread has come about during the last few years, according to Dr. Lorenz. "We are, I believe," he said, "the second greatest importer of Canadian wheat and we prefer that wheat to that of any other country."

VICKS

opened lips, fanned him gently. She smiled up at him, half drowsily, as if the faint melodies of passion that came out from the dance floor had lulled her senses into a yielding tenderness.

Careless of the tang of damp cold she allowed her wrap to fall back and bare the throat that seemed to blend into the silver sheen of the ghostly moonlight. Twin lights of another car—they recognized it as the one they had left down the road swung into the yard. The lustre of the lamps flared suddenly bright and, for an instant, enveloped them in their mist-dimmed glow.

Kendallworth's fingers lingered at their task of fixing the silver cord. His fingers quivered when the short, gold brown strands of hair slid among them. Joanna moved closer to him, and rested her hand lightly on his arm. When he let his fingers relax that the night breeze might blow her hair about them, he stared into her eyes and fancied that they had widened and that a circle of black had formed about the shimmering iris in each of them.

Then he caught her in a fevered clasp. She did not draw away, but reached up and drew down his head until she could frame his face with her two hands. Then she let him rest his lips on hers.

When he let her go, because he dared hold her no longer, and because couples who had come out into the yard were stopping to glance curiously at them, Joanna laughed, the rippling laugh that might be irritating as well as musical, and said to him while he fixed his own mask:

"You see, Roddy, the wall's clear down. I'm in the open, and I'm fighting fair!"

When they had disappeared across the club house veranda and through the doors which had been opened to them by the red coated attendant, one of the two men who had sat silently in their seats in the other car, descended. To the one who remained at the wheel this one said:

"Back around between the red car and the gate, so you can get out first if there's a rush for the road at any time."

"It is getting thick and moist, Master," the one at the wheel grumbled, in the voice of Antoine. "In another two hours we won't be able to see the wheels and all there'll be between us and eternity, on the road down there, will be the brakes."

"Then your men will have less fear of being recognized, and so will you," the other retorted. "That pleases you, doesn't it?"

While Antoine muttered intelligently, Brandon threw his coat into the car and fixed his mask carefully.

He did not go at once into the house, but loitered on the veranda, smoking. When he had finished his cigarette he tapped on the door and was admitted. The orchestra was playing a fox trot in languid rhythm and the floor was thronged with couples whose moods the musicians knew so well how to interpret.

Brandon surveyed the dancers with searching glances. Then he looked among the tables. Suddenly his eyes found a slender figure in black, with gold brown hair, at a table half hidden behind the potted palms that shut off a corner of the balcony that overhung the dance floor. He appeared to be satisfied, then, and dropped in to a place at an unreserved table and ordered a liqueur.

CHAPTER XXXII

La Turbie

Even as Brandon watched the slim figure in black, from his table, the orchestra struck up a waltz, a slowly rhythmed, exotic melody that chaunted like a song of passion. The figure in black rose. The man across from her whom Brandon had recognized easily despite his domino, as Kendallworth, was on his feet with her. A woman who had become careless breezed up to Brandon just then and boldly commanded him to take her onto the floor. He eyed her coolly and shook his head.

"I'd rather watch them," he said, and motioned to the vacant seat at his table in invitation to the unknown to sit out the number with him. The unknown declined. "I want to waltz," she said. "Any one will do if not you, a more gallant knight will immerse me. It's the only time I ever think when I'm waltzing."

"An odd condition, that!" Brandon taunted her. "Sounds so, doesn't it," she returned. "But it isn't, you know. Women think while they waltz, all women do. It reminds them of foolish dreams they had when they were very young." With a flirt of her hand across his shoulders the unknown disappeared. A moment later he saw her, among the dancers, and saw that she was dancing silently. And he saw, too, that Joanna, a striking figure in the colorful maze, danced silently; as if she, too, were thinking. He saw, too, that Kendallworth was holding her tightly.

When the music died in a plaintive bar, the dancers stood, expectant of the customary encore. The lights, which had dimmed, flared, however, and a roll of the orchestra drums announced an unwonted interruption. From the balcony railing a voice called, "Monsieurs et Madames!" All who were in the room glanced up, curiously, at the club house host, who stood at the rail, leaning forward over the dance floor. "I am desolate, my friends," the functionary called out, "before the necessity I must urge upon you all. I must ask you sorrowfully to make your departures from my hospitalities as soon as may be convenient for you. The mist, of which you must have taken note as you so kindly came to our club house earlier in the evening, has risen fast and densely. Soon your car lamps will be of no use to you. Even now you must go down very carefully. If there be any of you whose humor it is to remain with us until daylight, when the sun will chase the fog away, I assure you of my welcome. Those of you who feel it your duty to descend before the night has passed, must go at once—and very, very cautiously. In a little while it will be too late."

Little Helps For This Week

Be strong, and quit yourselves like men. —1 Sam. iv. 9.

Oh, this battlefield vast of the world, This triangle and rush of the foe, This gauge that forever is hurled, This ceaseless recoil of the blow.

This stringent command of the King, Proclaimed through His armaments wide,

That none of His soldiers shall fling Their armor one moment aside.

Margaret J. Preston.

Life is not victory, but battle. Fight on, fight on! The perfect character shall come at last. What will it be to fight no more? Shall we then forget the battles? Shall we then forget our sins? Why should we? Hated, renounced, subdued, let them hang on the walls of memory like the shields of vanquished enemies. Be patient a little longer. By and by in our hushed and waiting chambers, each in his turn we shall hear the sunset gun.

First News In Fifteen Years

Slav Islanders Have Just Heard of Czars Overthrow

News of the overthrow of the Czar and the establishment of a Soviet government in Russia has just reached a large island in the Bering Strait between Siberia and Alaska, with the arrival of the first ship in fifteen years. The Slav and Eskimo residents of the island were much astonished to learn that Russia is no longer a monarchy.

THE SPRING TIME IS TONIC TIME

Something is Needed to Quickly Improve Your Health

With the passing of winter many people feel weak, depressed and easily tired. There is no particular disease, but the system lacks tone. You find yourself tired, low spirited, often unable to get round sleep at night. All this is the result of slower indoor confinement of the winter months and shows that the blood has become thin and watery. Now, rich, red blood is what you need to put you right and there is no other tonic medicine can give you this new, rich blood as surely and as speedily as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. This new blood goes to every part of the body and quickly improves the general health. The digestion is toned up, and you have better appetite, the nerves are strengthened and sleep is refreshing. The special value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at this season is shown by the statement of Mrs. Elizabeth Clarke, R.R. No. 1, Hastings, Ont., who says: "I know Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a great blood builder because I use them in the spring, when one naturally feels run down after one long winter. Last spring I was feeling weak and easily tired, and again used the pills with the result that I have had splendid health since. The pills also restored my daughter, Mae, who was badly run down, and seemed almost bloodless. She used the pills faithfully for a time and has since enjoyed the best of health. Naturally I never hesitate to recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to people who are run down." You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Canada's Timberland

Of the total area of Canada, 1,200,000 square miles (approximately one-quarter of the whole) is forest land. Less than half of this carries timber of merchantable size (6 inches in diameter) at the present time, and only about one-quarter carries saw material (19 inches in diameter).

A Blessing to People of Advanced Years

Gin Pills relieve sufferers from kidney and bladder trouble

"I wonder if you really know what a blessing Gin Pills are to people of advanced years."

"I am 72 years of age, and suffered for a considerable time with kidney and bladder trouble. My rest was broken through having to get up in the night three and four times. Later I suffered with pains in the bladder, and my son, who had used Gin Pills for pains in the back and limbs, bought me a box. Before I had finished it I was relieved of the pains in my bladder and had to get up less frequently. At my age I can scarcely expect to be permanently free from troubles of this kind, but if Gin Pills will give others the relief they have given me, they will be a blessing indeed."

(Name on request.)

Prompt and lasting relief has been found in Gin Pills by thousands of people of advanced years who have had kidney or bladder trouble. If even slightly troubled in this way, get a box today at your druggist's—50c. National Drug & Chemical Company of Canada, Limited, Toronto, Canada.

Mrs. Matilda Milne

London, Ont.—"Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a splendid tonic for women to take at any time when weak and run down. While I was bringing up my family I found the 'Favorite Prescription' very beneficial as a strengthening tonic and nerve-builder. On several occasions I took it when in a run-down and nervous state of health and it built me right up. I found it especially beneficial during pregnancy. It not only kept me in good physical condition but was a great help to my mental state, also."—Mrs. Matilda Milne, 15 Wyatt St.

the mist were not evaporating after all.

When they slid out of the village they passed the car that had been ahead of them. It had stopped before a crumbling hut at the edge of the little town, where the road began again its sharp upward twisting. Both Kendallworth and Joanna looked into it curiously. They saw that whoever had been at the wheel had left it to go into the hut, probably.

The other figure was too muffled to be recognized.

They reached the plateau at the top of the mountain at last, and drew up before the clubhouse. Its cheerful lights, glowing an unnatural red, made faint shadows in the open yard. Scents of mellow music floated through closed doors, inviting newcomers to make the most of whatever sort of romance had brought them there.

"We'll leave the car near the road," Kendallworth announced. "We may have to make a dash for it if the mist becomes too thick."

Joanna slipped to the ground and stood close to the car. Kendallworth stood beside her while he drew off his overcoat, revealing his domino or shining white satin. It is a fiction at the mountain-top clubhouse that one must mask, so that all who go there may be assured of their anonymity—if they require it.

Joanna produced from a pocket of her wrap her soft black mask, a strip of thin velvet that barely reached the tip of her nose, with two almond shaped slits for her eyes. Thin silver cords, to be concealed and fastened in her hair, dangled from either tip of the mask. She held up her face to Kendallworth in mute invitation for him to fix the taunting strip of velvet in its place before they should enter the house.
